Foreword

Similar to an intricate puzzle, Lexington High School can be divided in many ways. When one considers each student in our school as a piece of this puzzle, it becomes difficult to imagine how we all fit into it to make one picture. Crowded though we may be, all of us do fit, and are important to the total image of the school.

We are, however, linked together by other types of puzzle pieces. These pieces are the many and varied classes, activities, sports, and features. And so, throughout this yearbook, the LHS student will be seeing many overflowing puzzle pieces, representing some phase of school life.

Dedication

To one who, during the past five years, has given his time and thought so freely, who has been a source of knowledge and a fountain of inspiration both in the classroom and elsewhere, who, through his concern for us as individual students, has bestowed upon us so many treasured moments of happiness and encouragement, we, the Class of 1966, dedicate our CRYSTAL to MR. SAM JOHNSON.

...explains details of Richmond trip to Seniors...

...takes pictures at basketball and football games...

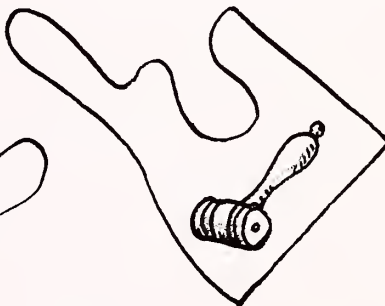

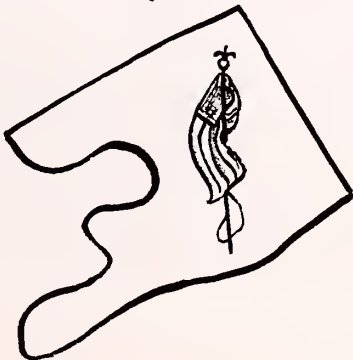

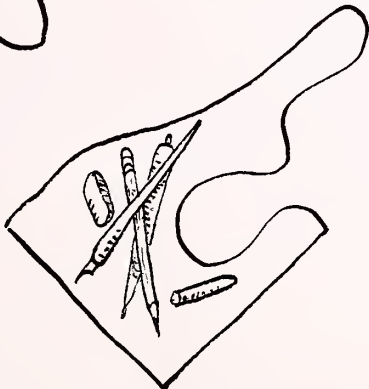

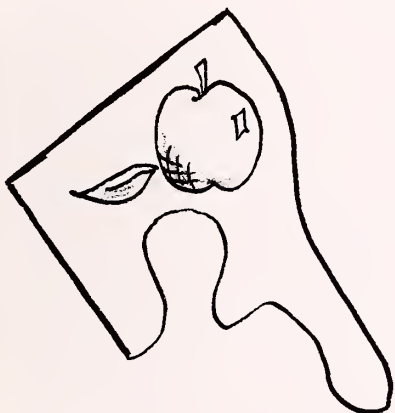

Mr. Johnson: displays his teaching skills in government class...

...and lets seniors indulge in Christmas festivities.

FACULTY

Administration and Faculty

The Lexington High School faculty has mounted this year to thirty-seven due to the increased enrollment of students from Lylburn Downing High School, creating a student - faculty ratio of twenty-one to one. With this large number of teachers, Lexington High School has improved greatly academic-wise by offering a wider variety of courses from which to choose.

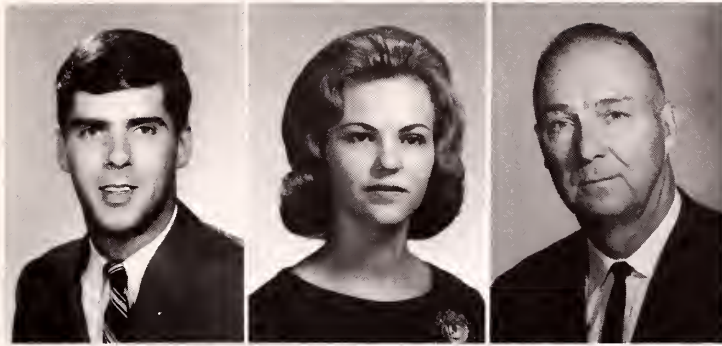

Mrs. Valentyne, hard-working secretary, checks report cards to make sure they are in alphabetical order.

Seniors In Action

Senior History

Seniors at last! How the time has flown since we were eighth graders! We didn't do much that year, but we did have a representative on the Honor Court, Susan Mahoney. Our Homecoming Court representative was Ginky McLaughlin. We elected John Atthowe and Ginky McLaughlin as president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, as our class officers.

As freshmen, we were beginning to feel as if we really belonged. We were allowed to elect James Bennetch to represent us on the Honor Court. Rob Goolrick served as president and Ginky McLaughlin as secretary-treasurer for the year.

Our sophomore year was one of excitement. We sponsored our first dance and had quite a few of our number admitted to the National Honor Society as probationary members. Eric Anderson was elected president of our class and John Atthowe served as secretary-treasurer. Sterling Moore was elected to represent us on the Honor Court. Ginky McLaughlin was an attendant on the Homecoming Court.

At last we were juniors, and looked forward to the Junior-Senior Prom, class rings, and becoming seniors. We had two girls as officers that year. Sally Sorrells served as president and Casey Carter as secretary-treasurer. For the first time we had two members of our class on the Honor Court, Martha Goodman and Steve Wessel. Susan Mahoney represented our class on the Homecoming Court. The year was one of both hard work and reward. We took College Boards for the first time and sponsored the Christmas Dance, with music provided by the "Week-enders." In January we received class rings and in February we were honored to have three of our fellow juniors, Jim Bennetch, Sally Sorrells, and Carol Taylor, attend All-District Chorus in Winchester, Va.

In May, we gave a very successful prom for the seniors. The theme was "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea." The "Regents" provided the music. Representing our class at Girls' State were Sue Wilson and Ginky McLaughlin. Steve Wessel and Sterling Moore attended Boys' State.

Finally, as seniors, we realized how fast the years could pass when we were busy. We had three seniors on the Executive Council. Steve Wessel was president of the student body, and Casey Carter was elected secretary-treasurer. John Atthowe served as our class president, and Peggy Hills was elected secretary-treasurer. We had three seniors on the Honor Court: Ginky McLaughlin, Sterling Moore, and Janice Tolley. We sent six seniors to All-District Chorus: Penni Chappell, Carol Taylor, Sally Sorrells, Thomas Wright, Jim Bennetch, and Donnie Smith. Sue Wilson, Jeff Peters, and Sterling Moore received National Merit Letters of Commendation as Rob Goolrick and Henry Roberts were declared semi-finalists in the National Merit Scholarship competition. The "Swingmasters" provided the music for the senior-sponsored Homecoming Dance. Phyllis Goodbar was elected Homecoming Queen and Ginky McLaughlin served as Maid-of-Honor. As we, the Class of 1966, look forward to graduation with a mixture of apprehension and delight, we know that we will always remember fondly Lexington High School as a symbol of our youth and what it represented to us.

ACTIVITIES

Executive Council

The Executive Council is made up of the president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer of the student body, and the president of each of the five classes. These eight people, chosen by the students themselves, represent the interests of the student body. The Executive Council acts as a mediator between the faculty and the students.

Under the guidance of Mr. Sam Johnson, the Council supervised the Christmas basket collection, took care of the school flag, took charge of the lost and found department, instituted a safe driving program, and introduced a senior "police" system to help eliminate the confusion at lunch time.

Philip Clayton, George Thomas, Johnny Sheridan.

Honor Court

Seated: Janice Tolley, Ginky McLaughlin, Sterling Moore, Mary McKenna, Mr. Keen, advisor. Standing: Zeke Ellington, Harold Plott, Clark Graff, Paula Borgus.

Representatives draw up rules of procedure during work session.

Honor Court Officers: Janice Tolley, bailiff; Mary McKenna, secretary; Sterling Moore, chairman; and Ginky McLaughlin, sergeant-at-arms.

The Honor Court, composed of elected class representatives and a faculty advisor, bears the responsibility of judging, in secret session, the cases of those students who have committed a breach of the Honor Code.

The honor system's effectiveness depends upon the maturity and co-operation of all students. The students' earnest efforts are continually encouraged by the Honor Court's members. They realize that our school's real strength will not be proved by outside regimentation, but will come from within.

Crystal

Crystal typists: Ann Simpson, Sandra Hill, Betty Lackey, Standing: Ginky McLaughlin, Susan Mahoney.

Crystal editors are chosen in early spring for work on the following year's yearbook. They attend SIPA conference in April to participate in the seminars. This year's editors were in charge of the magazine drive, during which funds were raised for the Crystal. A staff of seven juniors was chosen who assisted in editing the annual and from whose ranks next year's editors are selected. Typists assisted the staff in meeting the February deadline.

Scarletter

Seated: Karen Dean, Ginky McLaughlin, Rob Goolrick, Susan Mahoney, Mary McKenna, Walter Massie. Standing: Miss Williams, Sterling Moore,

The Scarletter is the Lexington High School student newspaper, published by the student editorial staff six times a year. The paper is supported entirely by student subscriptions and the sale of advertisements.

In 1965-66 Rob Goolrick served as editor-in-chief. He was supported by a staff which included the following: Mary McKenna, news editor; Susan Mahoney, feature editor; Ginky McLaughlin, business manager; Walter Massie, sports editor, and Karen Dean, circulation manager.

Each year The Scarletter sends three delegates to S.I.P.A., of which it is a member in good standing.

N.H.S. Represents Outstanding Merit

The qualities of scholarship, leadership, character and service are exemplified by the junior and senior members of the National Honor Society, who maintain an average of ninety or above in their subjects throughout the year. Sophomores are admitted as probationary members in the spring, and become regular members after the first semester of their junior year.

The N.H.S., under the guidance of Miss Gertrude Morrison, operates the guidance room, coaches students needing help, and sponsors a dance each year.

In the spring a banquet is given for the members by the parents.

C.P.H.S. Increases Membership

The first honor society in Lexington High School, the Chemistry-Physics Honor Society, was organized in 1949 under the auspices of Miss Elizabeth Dunlap, the present faculty sponsor. The purpose of the society is to give recognition to students who achieve an average of "90" or better for the first semester of either chemistry or physics. This average must be maintained throughout the second semester in order to insure permanent membership.

Meetings are held in October, February, and May. New members are welcomed into the club during the February meeting.

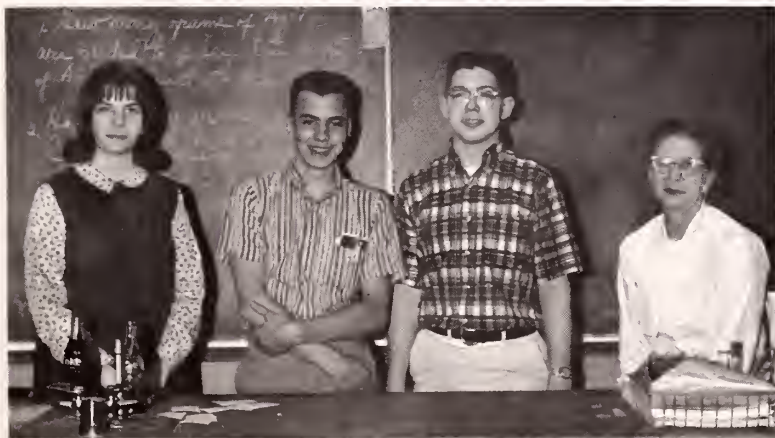

Officers for this school year are James Bennetch, president; David Bausum, vice-president; and Carol Taylor, secretary-treasurer.

New members pose behind tables in the Chemistry lab at meeting.

Literary Club officers Kathleen Brownley, president, Mrs. Price, advisor, and Curtissa Cofield, secretary-treasurer.

The Literary Club, under the guidance of Mrs. Price, has been very active this year. This year the club has taken up contemporary American literature. Several novels have been read and discussed by members of the club. This year the book selections were made by a special committee composed of members of the club. In January, Kathleen Brownley, president, conducted a quiz program on American Literature. The purpose of the club is to extend the reading horizons of IHS students.

Forensic Club Speaks Out

Mrs. Newman offers advice to club members in activities room.

The Forensic Club is made up of all students who are interested in public speaking. It is designed to give the student experience in speaking and help him to correct and improve his technique. The club is under the sponsorship of Mrs. Newman, our "forensicizing" expert, with Richard Anderson serving as president of the group.

This year club members participated in various types of public speaking such as extemporaneous speeches and prepared speeches, with great emphasis put on public debating.

The Distributive Education Club is made up of twenty students in the junior and senior classes. In addition, there are eight students from the sophomore class who are associate members.

The D.E. Club prepares students for careers in marketing and distributing, and, at the same time, provides them with experience on a part-time employment schedule.

Some of the Club's activities for the year included the Fall Conference of the D.E. Clubs of America. In December, the club participated in both the Buena Vista and Lexington Christmas Parades. Their float won second place in the Buena Vista Parade. Other activities during the year were the District and State Contest meetings.

Arts And Crafts Club Shows Talent

Members work on their leather projects.

The Arts and Crafts Club is made up of boys and girls from the eighth grade. This year the club sponsors were Mr. Engleman and Mrs. Hobbs. The president and secretary were Lynn Lowry and Nancy Hunter, respectively. The first activity of the year was making collages, an enjoyable experience for all club members. The remainder of the year has been spent on art work, leather work, and metal craft.

The School Song
 Oh, Lexington, we're rooting for you.
 And you've got to win this game.
 Oh, Lexington, we're rooting for you,
 For the sake of Lexington's name.
 Go down that field (court)
 And make a touchdown (basket)
 With that good old pep and fight,
 And when this grand old game is over,
 Lexington will shine tonight.
 Rah! Rah! Rah!
 Lexington team, Lexington team,
 Take that ball right through,
 Show old (Bueny) you can beat them,
 Now it's up to you.
 Rah! Rah! Rah!
 Lexington team, Lexington team,
 Fight for all your fame,
 Fight, fight, fight, fight,
 And we will win this game!
